From Farmer Scott

What am I thankful for? I am thankful to be involved in producing food for a fine community of people. I started this adventure when I was in my early 20's, after getting a degree in Environmental Studies. I had no idea what I would focus on at that time, but I knew it would be something that was gentle to the planet and helpful to our society. Even though I am labeled a "farmer," I consider myself a specialized generalist, working to set up a system that grows food in a sustainable way.

I am also thankful to my family and this land. I owe my ability to pursue things without fear to my parents. I grew up in a household where creating and fixing things were common. I watched the house I grew up in transform over time, along with the garden in the back, and vehicles in the garage get rebuilt. I also thank my parents for passing along the stewardship of this land, which provides a place to work and play and meet and connect with so many amazing people who share my vision of a sustainable future. Thank you for your stewardship of this land and the future.

In your Thanksgiving box today:

From the grateful fields of the farm, our "beyond organic" salad mix, carrots, chard, potatoes, parsley and Sugar Pie pumpkins; also garlic from Gilroy.

THANKSGIVING BOXES will be made on Tuesday and WEDNESDAY (pick up starting at 1 PM, as well as Thanksgiving day and through 9 PM Saturday evening).

THE LAGUNA FARM ARTISAN STORE is now open Fridays from 3 – 6 PM. This week we'll be open Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, stocked with an abundance of produce and lots of extra items to make sure you have plenty of food for your big meal. Thanks for supporting the farm!

WE NEED YOUR EXTRA BROWN PAPER BAGS AT THE CSA TABLE! Thanks!

BUYER'S CLUB FOOD ORDER

DEADLINE IS NEXT MONDAY, December 1, to place an order with United Natural Foods. This wholefoods distributor carries most grocery, bulk, frozen and body care products found in your local natural food stores, and offers them at wholesale prices with our group order. If you are interested in participating, call Kelly at the barn phone (823-0824) during store hours, and she will get you started.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING!!
